The Treehouse Plan

Tom and his best friend Lily were playing in the backyard one sunny afternoon when they came up with a brilliant idea. "Let's build a treehouse!" Tom exclaimed, his eyes shining with excitement. Lily nodded eagerly, imagining all the fun they could have in their very own treehouse.

The two friends quickly got to work, gathering supplies from the shed and sketching out their plan on a piece of paper. They decided the perfect tree for their treehouse was the old oak tree near the fence. It had sturdy branches and provided a great view of the entire backyard.

With hammer and nails in hand, Tom and Lily started building. They nailed planks of wood to the branches, creating a sturdy platform for their treehouse. Lily painted the walls a bright shade of blue, while Tom added a small window made of recycled glass.

After hours of hard work, the treehouse was finally finished. Tom and Lily climbed up the ladder and stepped inside, feeling proud of their creation. From their treehouse, they could see the birds flying by and hear the rustling of leaves in the wind.

As the sun began to set, Tom and Lily sat in their treehouse, enjoying the peaceful moment together. They knew that their treehouse was not just a place to play—it was a symbol of their friendship and teamwork.
